AUBURN AVENUE NEIGHBORHOOD CENTER FOR SENIORS

E. L. Tarlton & Associates was contracted by the MXD Collaborative to provide site analysis and landscape design services, in addition to MXD's urban design, urban safety analysis, architectural programming, architectural and engineering services for a day facility for senior citizens. The center MXD designed was a 5,400 square feet and had an estimated construction cost of 3/4 of a million dollars.

One of the major design challenges of this project was the location of the site which is in the popular Martin L. King, Jr. Historic District. The east side of the site (on the other side of Fort Street) was bound by Interstate-75/85. Fort Street serves as an exit and access road for the interstate, thus noise, traffic and pollution were major design factors for the MXD design team.
